There will be people trying to debunk that there is any value in this line-up, however, we are only offering our observations.

Revelation 12:1

Then a remarkable, important and surprising sign and miracle came into view to be paid attention to and perceived in heaven: a woman adorned and clad with the sun and with the moon below her feet, and on her head a crown, a sign of distinction of twelve stars and planets.

Normally the constellation Leo (the lion) has nine prominent stars. With the addition of Mercury, Mars and Venus in Leo, there are now twelve "stars" above Virgo's head.

Revelation 12:7

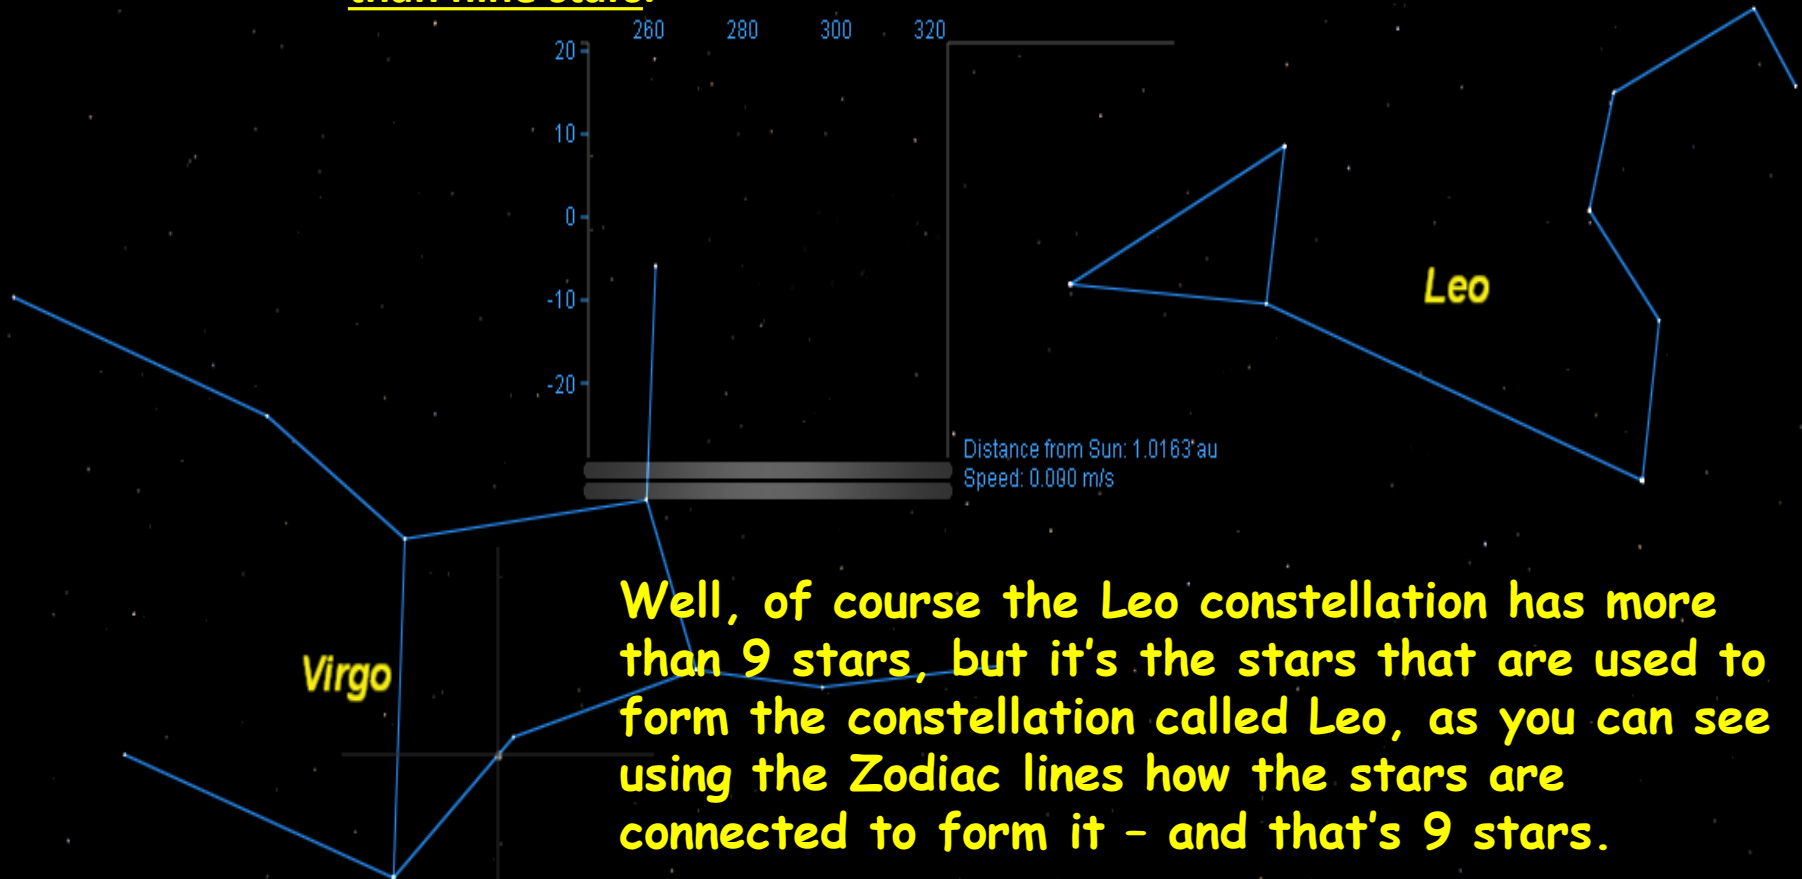

And there was a set-apart battle, war in heaven; Michael and his messengers fought and battled against the dragon or the serpent, and the dragon or the serpent and his messengers battled and fought back.

Revelation 12:8

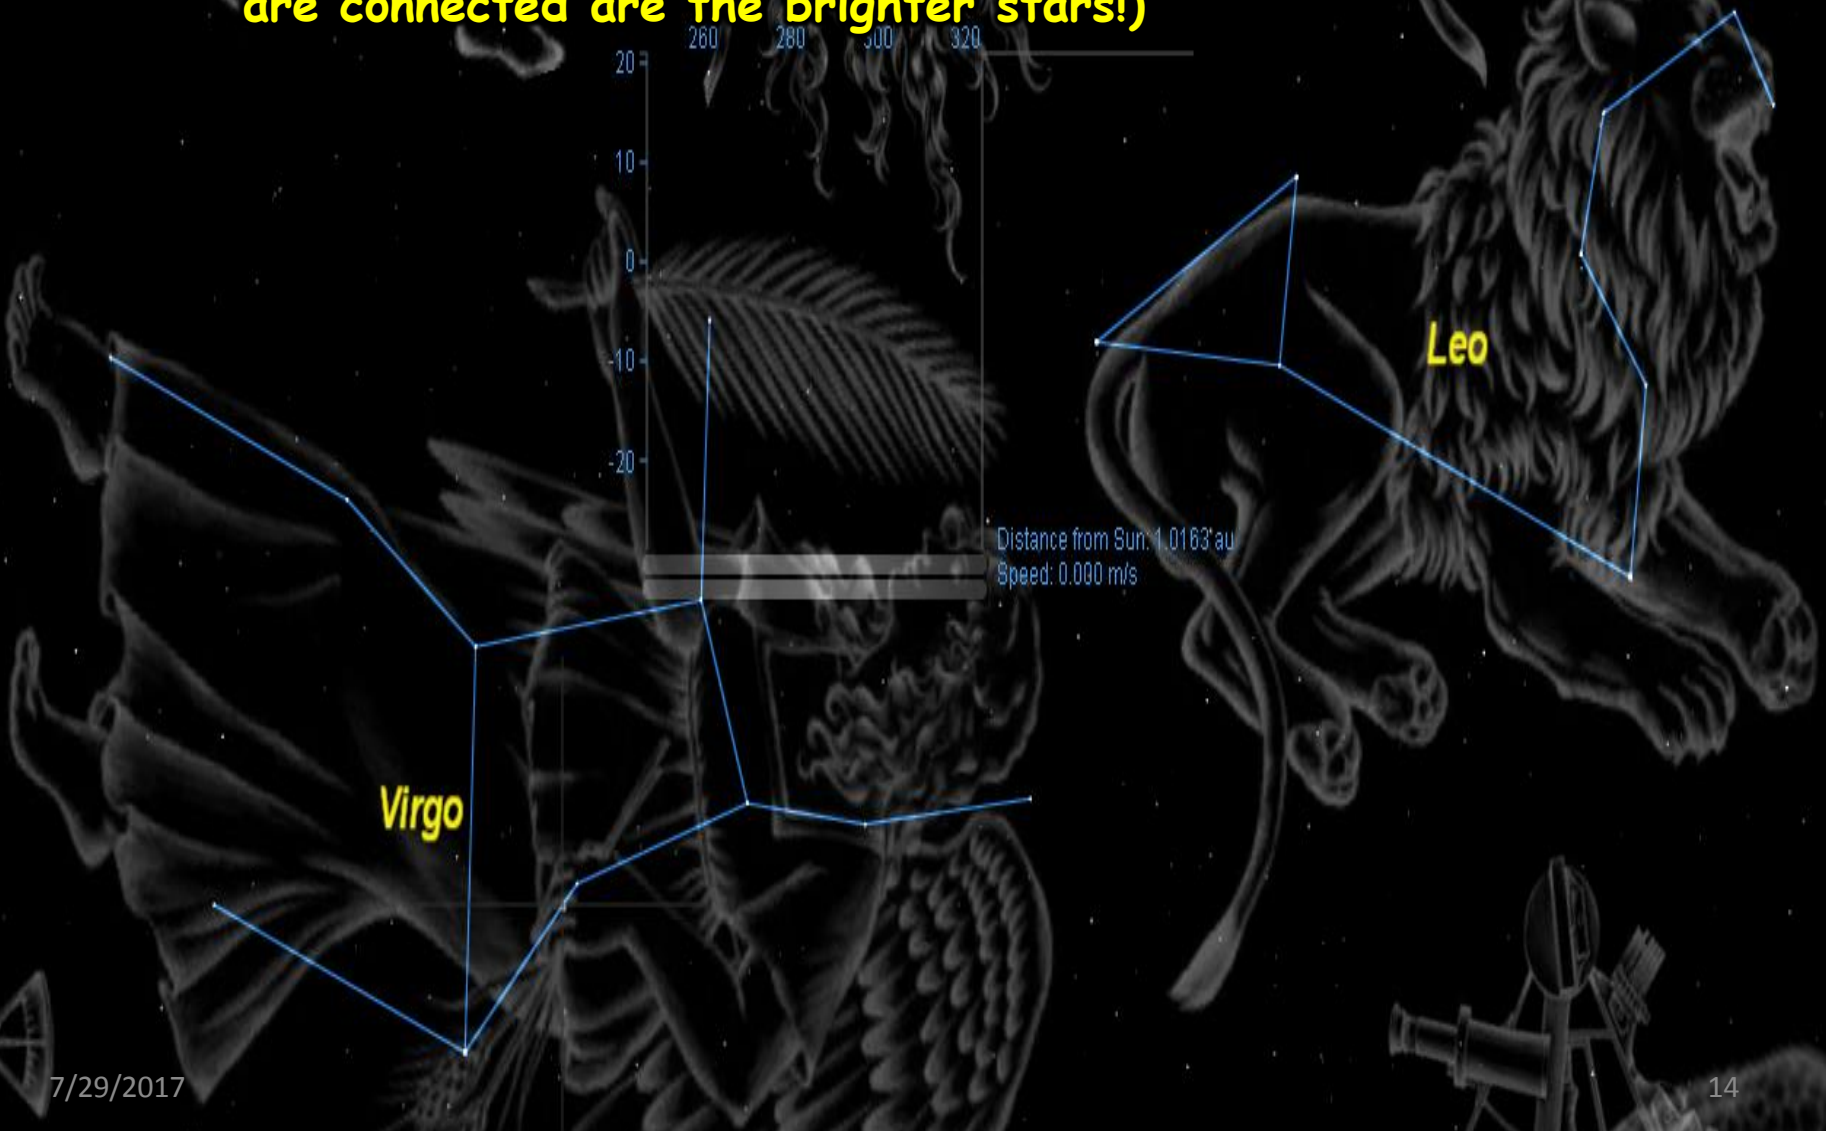

And they were not capable or had power enough to prevail, nor was a place found for them any longer in heaven.

The videos promoting this supposed sign claim that the constellation Leo has nine stars, so the addition of these three “wandering stars” brings the total number of stars in Leo, above the head of Virgo, to 12, with the 12 stars forming the crown of the woman in the sky, except that Leo has more than nine stars.

Well, of course the Leo constellation has more than 9 stars, but it's the stars that are used to form the constellation called Leo, as you can see using the Zodiac lines how the stars are connected to form it - and that's 9 stars.

Here Leo is with the illustration along with the Zodiac lines connecting the 9 stars. (Yes, there are more stars in that illustration, but also note the 9 stars that are connected are the brighter stars!)

And due to his circumstance his tail swept away dragging with force a third of the stars, supernatural beings from heaven casting and throwing them down to the earth. Then the dragon or serpent stood before and in front of the woman who was about to bring forth and give birth, in order that whenever she brought forth and gave birth to her child he could devour and utterly destroy it.

Multiple planets being at Virgo's head while Jupiter is in Virgo's center and the moon is at Virgo's feet is somewhat unusual. But it is not that unusual. The period of Jupiter's orbit is a little less than twelve years, and therefore Jupiter will be in Virgo (with the sun there, too, and the moon at the feet) once every eleven or twelve years.

So the sun in Virgo, the moon at Virgo's "feet", and Jupiter in the constellation are regular occurrences. This leaves the planets at the "head" (the number depending on the number of stars granted to Leo) as the determining factor in making a "momentous" celestial arrangement. Indeed, while various Internet sources speak of the specific celestial arrangement here as being "unique in human history" or "once in 7000 years", in fact it is not unique to September 23, 2017. This basic arrangement happened before—in September 1827, in September 1483, in September 1293, and in September 1056.

This is from a scientist, who has NO idea about Yahuah, but as you will see, is also VERY wrong!!!

Let's also NOT forget - that even though the scientist provided other years with the planet line-up - this is the ONLY time that Mercury, Mars and Venus along with the stars of Leo are ABOVE Virgo's head..like the CROWN spoken of in Revelation!!

This astronomer doesn't find anything unusual with this event on 9/23/2017 - as a matter of fact, he says that he found "what he thought" were the same line-up of astronomical objects in other years. Well, looking carefully at those years, we think that he's wrong. However, the biggest factor is that NONE of the other years he came up with lines up like what is taking place in 2017.

Daniel 12:10

Many will be purified (yiqtol) chosen, tested and will be cleansed (yiqtol) made white and spotless and will be refined (yiqtol) made flawless, but the evil, transgressors and wicked will act wickedly, doing wrong and evil and having done this evil is liable for a just penalty and punishment being declared guilty and none of the wicked being guilty of evil will realize or have the skill to perceive or examine and understand (yiqtol) with close attention, but those who have gained insight and wisdom through insight and paid close attention will understand (yiqtol) as they have considered with full attention and discernment.

Jeremiah 33:3

Invite and call to Me, then I will answer (yiqtol) declare and give evidence to you, and I will tell (yiqtol) and inform you great and important things, even inaccessible, incomprehensible and unsearchable things that you have not known, understood or been aware of.

Jeremiah 49:23

In regards to and towards Damascus: “Hamath and Arpad feel shame and are humiliated, for they heard and understood bad and evil news and revelations; they melt and collapse. There is concern and anxiety in the sea. It is not able to keep quiet and be at rest.

Jeremiah 49:24

Damascus has grown slack, limp and feeble in being able to respond to a situation. She has prepared and turned away to flee and escape in panic and terror. Anxiety, distress, anguish and trouble has become strong and seized her, and anguish, pain and travails have grasped and hold fast to her, like a woman in labor.

Jeremiah 49:25

forsaken and deserted! The city of my joy, gladness and delight.

Jeremiah 49:26

Therefore her young men will fall and drop in her public square, and all the soldiers will perish, be silenced and laid to waste in that day," declares Yahuah of hosts.

Jeremiah 49:27

“And I will kindle and set ablaze fire at the wall of Damascus, and it will devour and consume the citadel fortresses of Ben-hadad.”

Ben-Hadad I. Ben-Hadad I (Hebrew: בן הדד hdd; Aramaic: בר הדד , br hdd) was the king of Aram Damascus between 885 BC and 865 BC. He was the son of Tabrimmon and grandson of Hezion and a contemporary of Kings Baasha and Ahab of the Kingdom of Israel (Samaria) and Asa of the Kingdom of Judah.

Isaiah 17:1-3

An oracle, a prophetic utterance of Damascus: “Look and behold! Damascus will and on account of its direction will be turned aside, rejected and cease being a city and will become a twisted heap of ruins, fallen buildings and rubble. The cities of Aroer will be abandoned and forsaken; they will be (yiqtol) for the flocks, then they will be made to lie down and no one will be afraid, startled or frightened. Then the fortified city will cease to exist and disappear from Ephraim (Syria rests on the border of Ephraim), and the kingdom and dominion from Damascus; and the remainder and remnant of Aram (Arameans- people that lived in areas around Damascus) will be (yiqtol) like the splendor, honor and esteem of the children of YAHsaral”, declares with prophetic authority Yahuah of hosts.

DAMASCUS – The first thing you notice while driving over Mount Lebanon is how close Beirut and Damascus are, and yet their respective situations could not be further apart.

Beirut is approx. 100 kilometers or 62.13 miles from Damascus

The city is on high alert after intense fighting broke out in the Damascus district of Jobar, and in Quaboun, and in the suburb of Ghouta.

APOCALYPTIC SCENES IN JOBAR

7/29/2017

Over the last five weeks, the west's proxy column commonly known in US and UK media circles and by Senator John McCain, as "moderate rebels," unleashed what American analyst Andrew Korybko cannily described last month as a Takfiri Tet Offensive. Not surprisingly, the Syrian government forces' response to the Takfiri offensive in terrorist-occupied places like Jobar has been hard and swift. Syria's is not like any other urban conflict. As in East Aleppo, terrorists in Jobar have been operating from a series of underground tunnels and bunkers which have been dug and developed over the last five years.

The photo shows the aftermath of an Israeli missile strike on the Mezzeh airbase near Damascus

The purpose of this terrorist surge was twofold: to derail international peace talks, and to further destabilize previously stable areas, like Damascus, but also to try and stretch the Syrian Army's resources, in effect handicapping attempts to regain control of pivotal control lines like Deir ez Zor. Meanwhile, an increasingly motley international conclave continues to huddle around the ISIS stronghold of Raqqa in preparation for the big show.

In the same way that Israeli airstrikes in Syria have coincided with al Nusra and ISIS movements on the ground, the timing of this recent terrorist offensive in conjunction with US military operations should not be ignored either.

The fact remains that terrorist militants continue to benefit from the US-led Coalition and Israeli sorties, including after the recent US Tomahawk missile strike on Shayrat Air Base in Syria ordered by President Trump.

The US President claims the US was “taking out” Syria’s ‘chemical weapon facilities’ in response to the alleged chemical weapons incident in Khan Sheikhoun in Idlib province last week. In his infinite wisdom, what Trump really did was take out a Syrian air base which was responsible for roughly 75% of air sorties launched against ISIS.

Like Obama before him, Trump’s claim that Washington’s illegal US operation in Syria is all about fighting ISIS – still rings as hollow as ever.

Simply put, what CNN and its mainstream cohorts have been doing on a daily basis since 2011 is projecting their own self-styled, fictional narratives, tailored for a virtual sixth grade reading level audience. To suggest that somehow the terrorist occupations of Damascus neighborhoods is an outgrowth of the Arab Spring should be treated as fake news on an epic scale.

Forget Korea, WW III to Begin In Syria

<http://www.thecommonsenseshow.com/2017/04/25/forget-korea-ww-iii-to-begin-in-syria>

Russia is calling for a true and independent investigation into the chemical weapons attack in Syria. At the behest of the neocons, Trump jumped to an unqualified position and unilaterally attacked Syria. On the surface, who appears to be pursuing the reasonable course of action here? This lessens the possibility that international pressure can be brought on Russia to change course in Syria.

The Russians have also expressed a desire for a peaceful resolution to the multiple crises in places like Yemen and the Middle East. On the other hand, the American government wants to continue to pursue a reckless policy of endless wars of occupation and undeserved resource allocations which are then transferred into private party hands on Wall Street. If there is a better definition of US fascism, I have not seen it.

However, there is no question that the corrupt relationship between US foreign policy and Wall Street profits, have once again taken center stage in Syria and the Russians are taking full advantage while, at the same time, advancing their cause of militarizing Syria. Checkmate Russia!

LOCKHEED MARTIN

It was announced on Monday that Turkey is sending F-35's to Israel

This move places Syria and Iran under considerably more danger and this clearly marks an escalation in preparations being made for World War III in the Middle East.

Can there be any question that war in Syria is imminent? Could there be a more ominous post than the following one from the Jerusalem Post with regard to the arriving F-35's?

“Once the jets arrive in Israel, they will not leave except for combat missions.”

A total solar eclipse is shown over a mountain range. The sun is completely obscured by the moon, creating a dark circle in the center of a bright, glowing ring. According to Reuters, President Trump and his officials will hold an extremely unusual and rare briefing on Wednesday, April 26, at the White House. The invited guests are all 100 Senators. The topic is the highly volatile situation involving North Korea.

<http://www.dcclothesline.com/2017/07/28/north-korea-just-threatened-the-us-with-nuclear-war/>

With tensions rising and the North Korean regime unwilling to cease missile tests, the leader of the rogue nation is now officially threatening the United States with World War 3. (And they can now reach Chicago with their weapons.)

PYONGYANG, North Korea
— North Korean leader Kim Jong Un said Saturday the second flight test of an intercontinental ballistic missile demonstrated his country can hit the U.S. mainland, hours after the launch left analysts concluding that a wide swath of the United States, including Los Angeles and Chicago, is now in range of North Korean weapons.

<https://christianruther.com/government/drills/gotham-shield-commences-what-happens-now/>

On April 26th, 2017 a terror drill will be conducted at the Capitol, the entire US Senate will be briefed by Donald Trump and his four top defense and military officials on the situation in North Korea at the White House. Also on Wednesday, the USS Carl Vinson is finally going to arrive off the coast of the Korean Peninsula.

An operational test launch of an Air Force Global Strike Command unarmed Minuteman III intercontinental ballistic missile is scheduled for Wednesday, April. 26, between 12:01 a.m. to 6:01 a.m. from North Vandenberg Air Force Base.

Oddly enough several crises are apparently coming to a head all around the same time of the infamous drill. To name a couple, North Korea, a potential government shutdown, and the Syrian attack no one is talking about.

Here is the Gotham Shield update - when there is the opportunity to let everyone know what is going on - then certain things don't happen so OPENLY - these snakes slither back into their holes, however they don't give up - they just become more secretive....

<http://beforeitsnews.com/alternative/2017/04/operation-gotham-shield-update-media-blackout-video-3505658.html>

A FEMA spokeswoman said that the EMT exercise is separate from the 4-day practice drill being run by federal agencies. No media access was permitted to observe this operation. Participating in the drill were the Department of Defense, Homeland Security's Domestic Nuclear Detection Office, the Department of Energy, the Federal Radiological Monitoring and Assessment Centers and the FBI.

Word of the drills spread online, initially causing some concern and confusion. Websites such as Superstation95.com and TheWatchtowers.org posted about it, although the latter site's post has since gone dark.

Some participants in the exercise then subsequently removed their postings about the drill, such as the Health Care Association of New Jersey which explained on Facebook:

“Yesterday, we posted information for our members regarding an emergency exercise. Unfortunately, since that time, individuals not associated with our membership or profession have posted comments that are inappropriate for this Facebook page and could have the ability to impact the success of this exercise. We have, therefore, taken down the information and will be deleting any further inappropriate comments.”

“I’ve become aware there has been some crazy stuff flying around,” Grembowiec said.

He also said the exercise had little to do with other current events, such as North Korea’s rapidly developing nuclear program.

“This has been in planning for quite a long time. This really has nothing to do with any current situation.”

Zechariah 9:13

Truly I have bent, guided and directed Judah as My bow, potency and power: I have set, proclaimed and filled up Ephraim as an arrow. I will awaken, rouse up and set in motion your sons, O Zion, before and against your sons, O Javan (son and grandson of Noah through Japheth, the whole of Greece). I will wield you like the sword of a warrior.

Zechariah 9:14

Indeed, Yahuah will appear, be seen over, near and among them, and His arrow will go forth, extend and produce like lightning and flashing; and my Almighty Yahuah will blow and sound the shofar, trumpet, then He shall travel , going out in the storm, tempest and gale winds of the south.

Zechariah 9:15

Yahuah of hosts will defend, shield and protect them, and they will devour, destroy and ruin then subdue, overcome and conquer the slingstones (stone slightly smaller than a fist, hurled at an enemy as a weapon); they will drink, they will make noise, be loud and tumultuous like wine and drunkenness, and they will be full like a sacrificial basin, bowl for drinking wine, like the corners of the altar.

Zechariah 9:16

Then Yahuah their Eternal will rescue, save and deliver them on that day, as the flock of His people; indeed as a marker of contrast the cornerstone of a diadem, a crown, glittering and assembling under His banner on His land.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN OUR SOLAR SYSTEM?

Will Asteroid 2012 TC4 Hit Earth in October 2017?

<http://www.astrowatch.net/2015/04/will-asteroid-2012-tc4-hit-earth-in.html>

On Oct. 12, 2017, the asteroid 2012 TC4 is slated to whizz by Earth dangerously close. The exact distance of its closest approach is uncertain, as well as its size. Based on observations in October 2012 when the space rock missed our planet, astronomers estimate that its size could vary from 12 to 40 meters. The meteor that exploded over the Russian city of Chelyabinsk in February 2013, injuring 1,500 people and damaging over 7,000 buildings, was about 20 meters wide. Thus, the impact of 2012 TC4 could be even more devastating. "It is something to keep an eye on," Judit Györgyey-Ries, astronomer at the University of Texas' McDonald Observatory, told astrowatch.net. "We could see an airburst maybe broken windows, depending on where it hits."

The house-sized asteroid was discovered on Oct. 4, 2012 by the Pan-STARRS observatory in Hawaii.

Week later, it gave Earth a close shave when it passed the planet at the distance of 0.247 LD (lunar distance), or 94,800 km (58,906 mi). 2012 TC4 is an elongated and rapidly rotating object and has been known to make many close approaches to Earth in the past.

Now, the scientists try to determine the exact path of 2017 fly-by and the probability of a possible impact.

“There is one in a million chance that it could hit us,” Detlef Koschny, head of the Near-Earth Object (NEO) Segment in the Space Situational Awareness (SSA) programme office at ESA, told astrowatch.net. He also tried to estimate the exact size of the celestial body.

“The size was estimated from the brightness, but we don't know the reflectivity. So it could be smaller or larger, assume from 10 m (32 ft) to 40 m (131 ft). A 40 m iron object would go through the atmosphere and make a crater; a 10 m rocky object would be hardly noticed.”

The Chelyabinsk meteor exploded at a height of 12 miles (20 km) above Earth, releasing 500 kilotons of energy, approximately 30 times the yield of the nuclear bomb over Hiroshima. It caused a shock wave that broke windows in six Russian cities and caused some 1,500 people to seek treatment for injuries, mainly from flying glass. Later, about five tons of meteoritic material reached the ground, including a 1,400-pound (650-kg) meteorite that was recovered by divers from the bottom of Russia's Lake Chebarkul.

These images and diverse scientific data compiled during the event have let scientists calculate the trajectory of meteoroid after it entered Earth's atmosphere.

And that information helps scientists calculate possible initial orbits for the 19-meter-wide (about 20 yards wide) space rock around the sun, before it struck Earth's atmosphere.

Where in space did the Chelyabinsk super bolide come from? Did it have a parent body, and was that body a known object in space?

The answer is that we don't yet know for certain, but scientists are still trying to figure it out.

<http://strangesounds.org/2017/04/what-would-an-asteroid-impact-be-like-deadliest-effects-asteroid-strike-1000-mph-winds-and-powerful-shock-waves.html>

The end of the world wouldn't be pretty if a big asteroid slammed into the Earth. The deadliest effects would be ferocious winds of up to 1,000 mph and intense shock waves.

A new scientific study shows that if a big asteroid — like Asteroid 2014 JO25 — slammed into the Earth, ferocious winds of up to 1,000 mph and intense shock waves would kill the most people.

This is the first study that looks at all seven impact effects — heat, pressure shock waves, flying debris, tsunamis, wind blasts, seismic shaking and cratering — generated by hazardous asteroids and estimates which are, in terms of human loss, the most severe.

The winds and the shock waves would be the worst. In fact, these two effects would account for more than 60% of lives lost. Shock waves from a spike in atmospheric pressure would rupture internal organs, while wind blasts would hurl human bodies and flatten forests.

Something is Affecting the Entire Solar System

Strange things are happening in both outer and inner space.

Scientists are discovering that the Solar System, the sun, and life itself are mutating in totally unprecedented ways.

They are reporting changes that are being recorded in space that have never been seen before.

Studies show that the Sun and the planets themselves are physically changing at an accelerated pace. Most notably, they are undergoing major changes in their atmospheres.

Dr. Lockwood has been investigating the Sun, and reports that since 1901 the overall magnetic field of the Sun has become stronger by 230 percent

The energetic changes in the sun radiate outward through solar wind, thereby increasing the charge of interstellar space.

A reverse in the sun's magnetic poles has opened the flood gates.

The solar system is experiencing and overflow of star dust.

The sun reverses its magnetic polarity every eleven years.

As the sun's magnetic field grows, it attracts more dust.

The background of the slide is a deep blue space filled with numerous small, distant stars. On the right side, a large, bright yellow star is partially visible, its light creating a soft glow and illuminating the surrounding dust and gas. The overall scene is a rich field of stars, likely representing the interstellar medium.

Consequently, the amount of star dust in the solar system has increased three fold since 2003, which is heating up interstellar space.

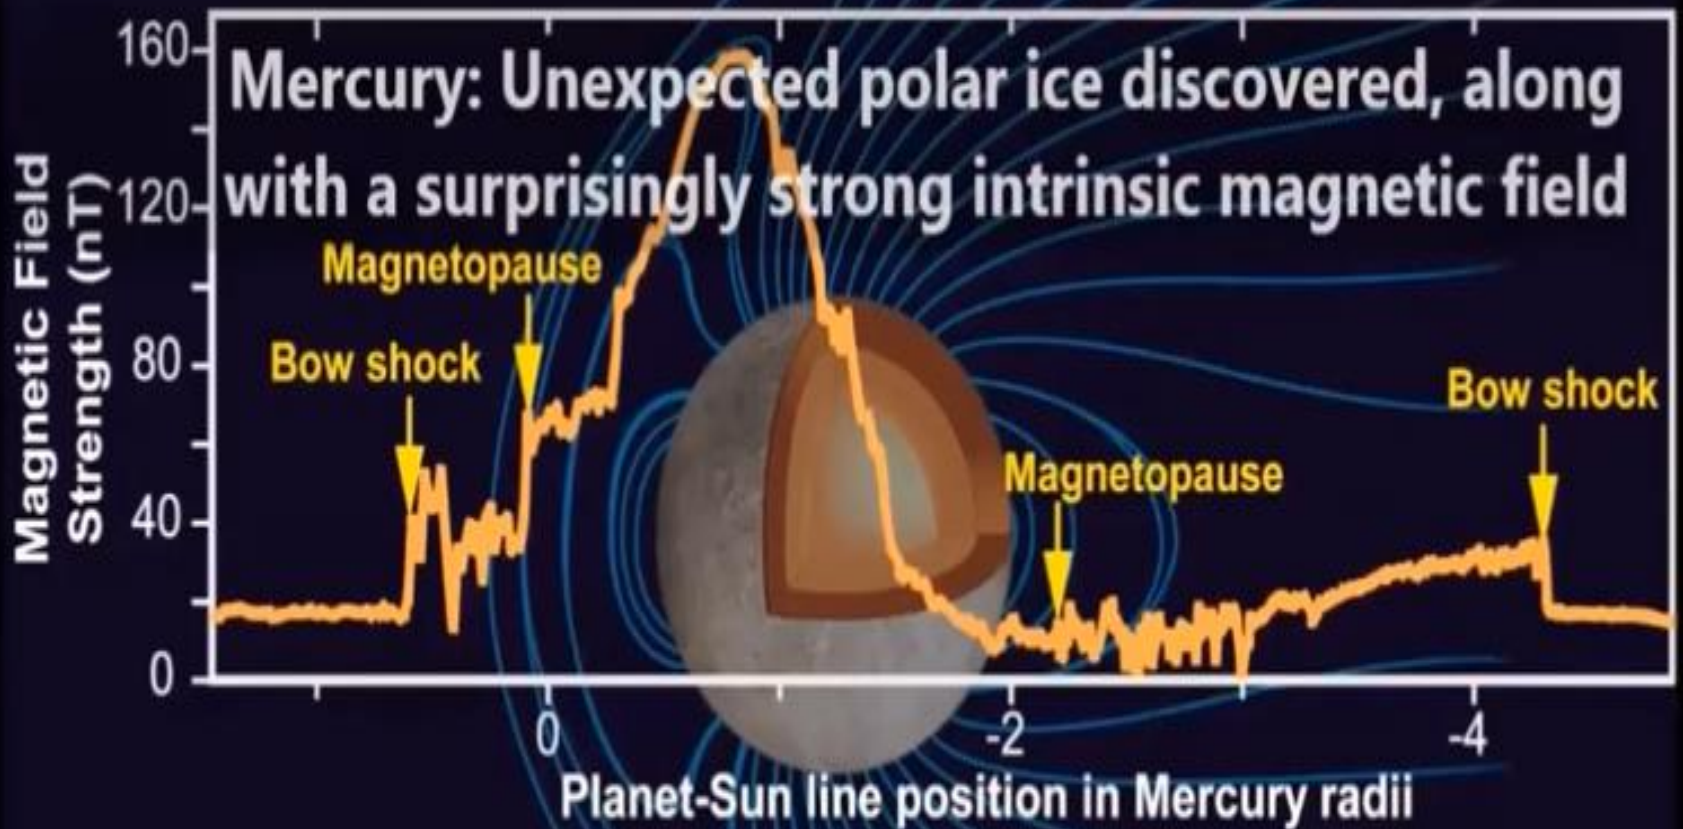

What is puzzling scientists is the amount of star dust that continues to flood the solar system even though the sun has calmed down.

Rev 16:8-9 And the fourth caused to flow and poured out his bowl on the sun, and it was allowed, permitted and granted to it to burn up people with hellfire. And people were burned up by the great scorching heat, and they blasphemed, profaned, slandered and spoke outrageously against the name of Yahuah who has the authority, jurisdiction, domain and influence over these plagues, distresses and misfortunes, and they did not repent or change their minds to give Him esteem, honor and reverence.

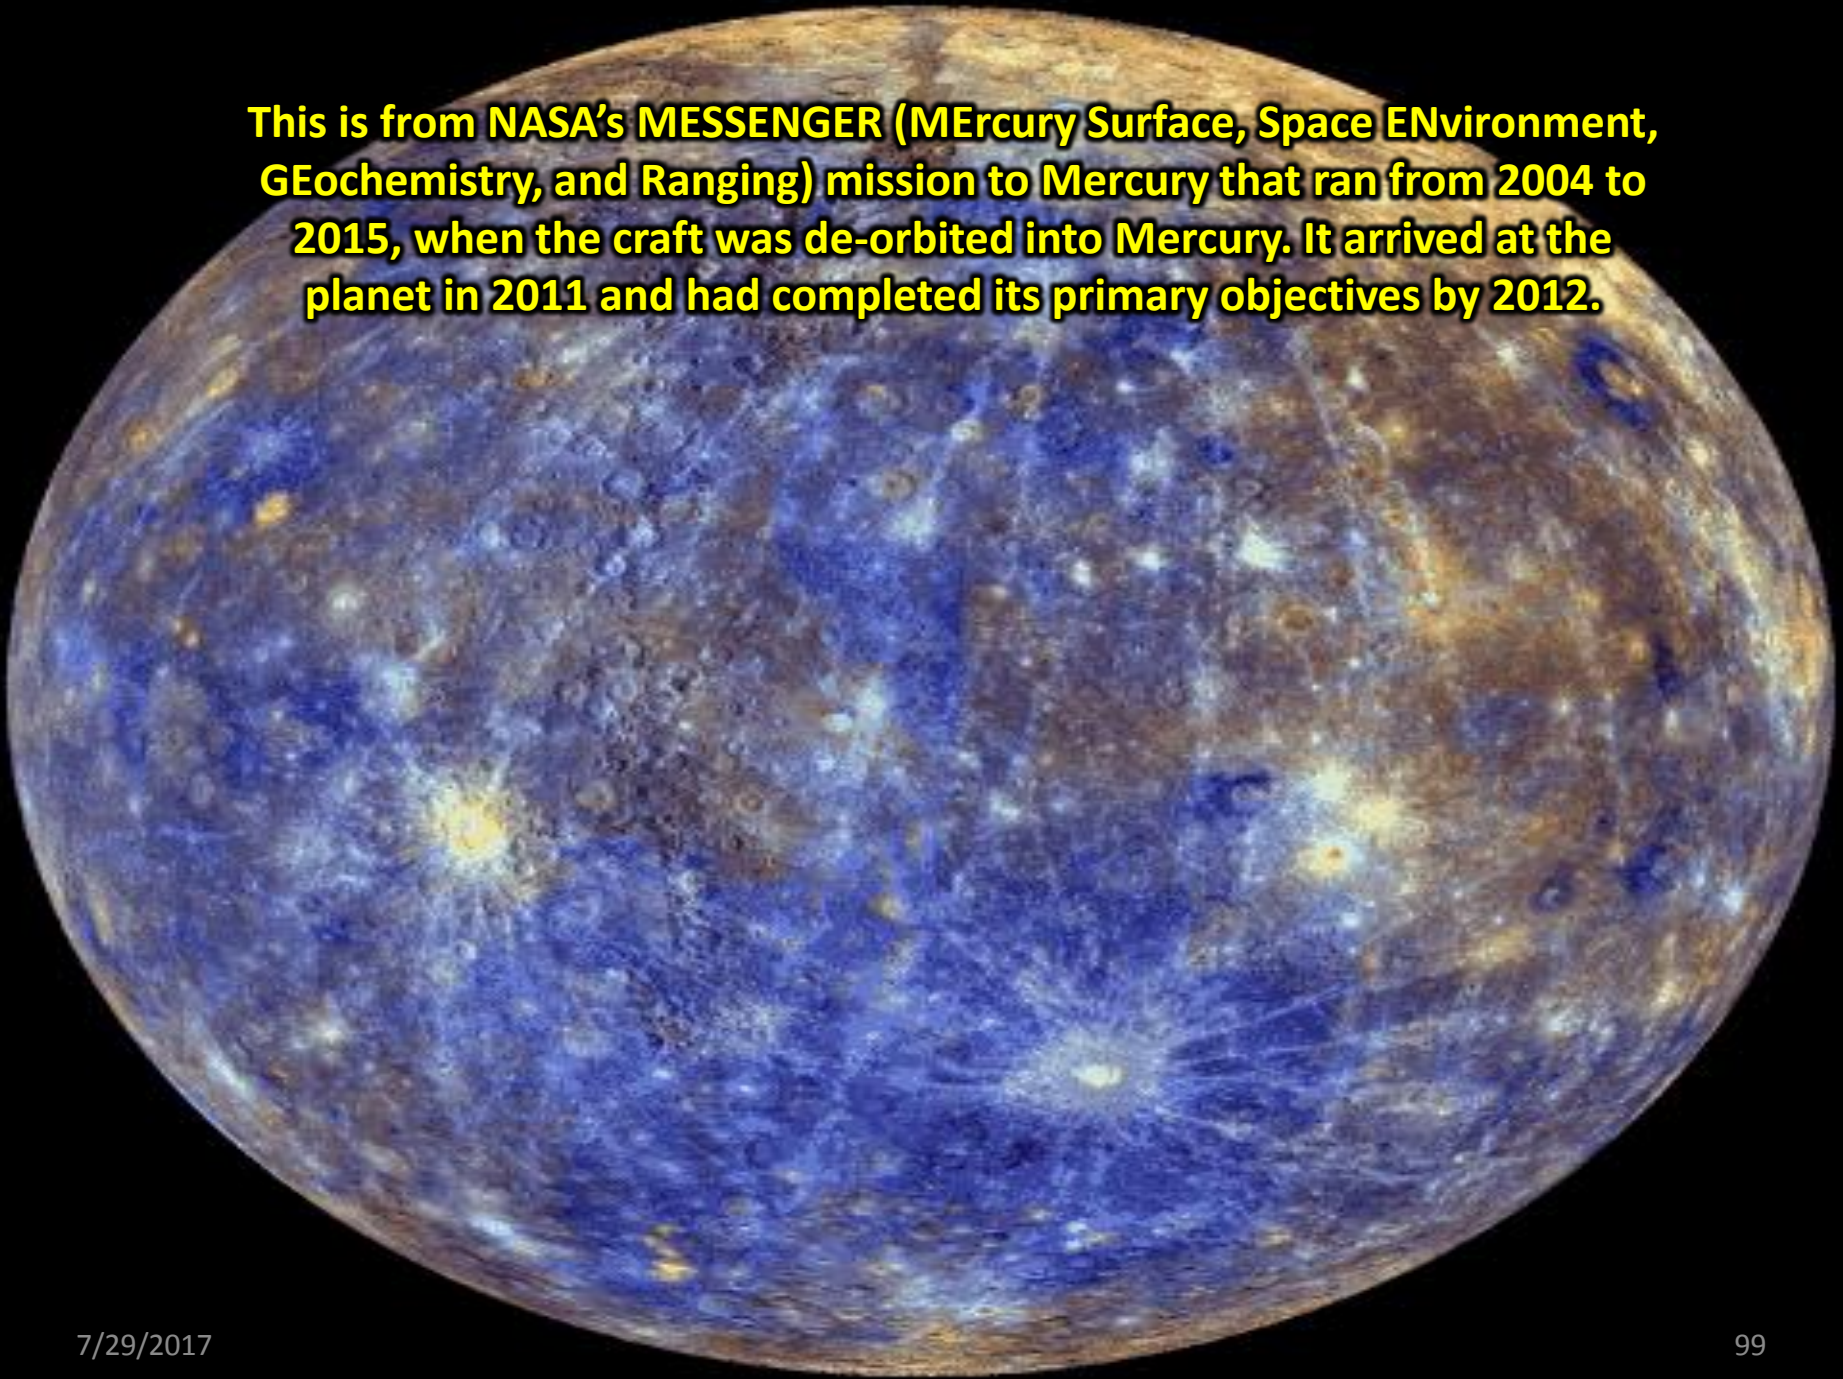

Moon: Earth's moon is growing an atmosphere

Around the moon, there is a 6,000 kilometer – deep layer of Natrium that wasn't there before. (Natrium is an obsolete name for sodium)

This is from NASA's MESSENGER (MErcury Surface, Space ENvironment, GEochemistry, and Ranging) mission to Mercury that ran from 2004 to 2015, when the craft was de-orbited into Mercury. It arrived at the planet in 2011 and had completed its primary objectives by 2012.

Venus: 2500% increase in auroral brightness, and substantive global atmospheric changes in less than 40 years

Venus was originally cooler than what it is now and it had a greater abundance of water several billion years ago. Also, most of its carbon dioxide was locked up in the rocks. Through a process called a runaway greenhouse, Venus heated up to its present blistering hot level. Because Venus was slightly closer to the Sun than the Earth, its water never liquified and remained in the atmosphere to start the greenhouse heating.

This image shows Jupiter's south pole, as seen by NASA's Juno spacecraft from an altitude of 32,000 miles (52,000 kilometres). The oval features are cyclones, up to 870 miles (1,400 kilometers) in diameter. Multiple images taken with the JunoCam instrument on three separate orbits were combined to show all areas in daylight, enhanced colour, and stereographic projection.

A Nasa statement described the planet as 'a complex, gigantic, turbulent world' that is far different than scientists previously thought.

The image shows a close-up view of Jupiter's atmosphere, characterized by a complex pattern of swirling storms and cyclones. The colors are enhanced, showing various shades of blue, green, and brown. A prominent dark spot is visible in the upper right quadrant, surrounded by a dense field of smaller, swirling storm systems. The overall appearance is that of a highly turbulent and dynamic environment.

NASA's enhanced-color image of a mysterious dark spot on Jupiter shows a Jovian 'galaxy' of swirling storms in this image captured by NASA's Juno spacecraft on February 2, 2017, at 5:13 a.m. PDT (8:13 a.m. EDT), at an altitude of 9,000 miles (14,500 kilometers) above Jupiter's cloud tops.

Turning counter-clockwise in the northern hemisphere just like on Earth, the cyclones are clearly clustered near the poles.
The diameters of some of these cyclones stretch 870 miles (1,400 kilometres).

Earth's axis has changed.

A dramatic increase in earthquakes – erupting volcanoes are happening more frequently.

<https://www.jpl.nasa.gov/news/news.php?feature=6332>

Around the year 2000, Earth's spin axis took an abrupt turn toward the east and is now drifting almost twice as fast as before, at a rate of almost 7 inches (17 centimeters) a year. "It's no longer moving toward Hudson Bay, but instead toward the British Isles," said Adhikari. "That's a massive swing." Adhikari and Ivins set out to explain this unexpected change.

Well, let's blame this on geo-engineering!!

Scientists have suggested that the loss of mass from Greenland and Antarctica's rapidly melting ice sheet could be causing the eastward shift of the spin axis. The JPL scientists assessed this idea using observations from the NASA/German Aerospace Center Gravity Recovery and Climate Experiment (GRACE) satellites, which provide a monthly record of changes in mass around Earth. Those changes are largely caused by movements of water through everyday processes such as accumulating snowpack and groundwater depletion.

Katla volcano alert level has been raised to Yellow on July 28, 2017. This after the strongest earthquake in years and a sulfur smell emanating from river coming out of the volcano were reported in the area.

Katla is located beneath the MÝRDALSJÖKULL GLACIER in Iceland. An eruption in Katla is believed to pose even greater dangers to aviation than the 2010 eruption in nearby Eyjafjallajökull glacier.

Major water receding again: Ocean mysteriously disappears in Brazil and anomalous tides in Chile (video)

By Strange Sounds- Aug 25, 2017

Water is receding along the Atlantic coast, while Pacific waters are expanding and flooding parts of Chile. And this exact same phenomenon occurred two days ago AGAIN.

Two weeks ago, the sea mysteriously receded in Uruguay and Brazil. At the same time, on the other side of the South American continent, huge waves were crashing on the beaches of northern Chile.

Now, a few days after the US solar eclipse, the Atlantic ocean is massively receding Again. And again, on the other side of the continent, Chile is waiting anomalous tides bringing huge waves and probably flooding along the coast.

This anomalous tidal ocean phenomenon is symmetric (receding in Atlantic vs expanding in Chile)... It is totally crazy as if the waters were trying to find an equilibrium... And nobody knows why.

A resident explained seeing over thousand dead geese for about 20 kilometers of shoreline... too many to even count.

A large flock of snow geese is captured in flight against a clear blue sky. The birds are densely packed, filling most of the frame. They are shown from various angles, with their wings spread, creating a complex pattern of white and dark feathers. The lighting is bright, suggesting a sunny day.

Officials are aware of the situation and are following up on the incident and will consider next steps, without mentioning these next steps.

An emeritus professor of wildlife biology and ornithologist at McGill University said it's likely that the birds died of disease, some kind of avian disease...Avian cholera? The latest can wipe out hundreds of thousands to a million ducks and geese all in one fell swoop since it is pretty contagious. And what about these snow geese ingesting a toxic substance?

A scenic landscape of a mountain lake. The water is calm, reflecting the surrounding environment. In the foreground, a small island or peninsula is covered with several tall, dark evergreen trees. The middle ground shows a wide expanse of the lake, with some rocky patches visible. In the background, majestic mountains rise, their peaks partially covered in snow. The sky is a clear, vibrant blue with a few wispy white clouds. The overall atmosphere is peaceful and majestic.
