EXPLORING THE MYSTERY IN REVELATION 10:7

No matter how many times one looks at the book of Revelation, something always seems to pop out; something that was missed even though you may have read that book 100 times. But then again, that is the beauty of Yahuah because we know that Scripture has been tampered with so that who is doing the tampering puts in what “they” want us to know. Back in the “olden” days when the masses were illiterate, it was easy to fool the masses, or when the Catholic priests were the only ones who could read the “Bible”. Rabbis, who controlled the scrolls because “they” were just too expensive for the “common” man to touch!!

Contrary to man though, Yahuah meant for “all” of us to know His words and His plans and that is NO exception with this book, a book that almost didn’t make it into Scripture, a book that can be confirmed by Daniel even with all its tampering.

A dramatic night scene of a storm over the ocean. The sky is dark blue with a bright lightning bolt striking the water. Palm trees are silhouetted against the sky on the right side. The overall mood is intense and powerful.

Most preachers, pastors, and priests like to usurp Yahuah and replace Him with Yahusha. It's as if the Father has totally disappeared, but then again, according to most of the New Testament, pretty much everything has been done away with, so why not get rid of the Father! Revelation, in as much as it's been tampered with and things put in out of order, one can very clearly see, that there are TWO – The Father and the Son, and it's not just the Son that is coming back!! Stuck in chapter 10, one finds a most interesting verse that is easy to pass over without really thinking about it, but upon closer inspection one will see that 10:7 has everything to do with Yahuah!!!

Without the grace of Jesus:
A hopeless end. With the grace of Jesus: An endless hope.

So I heard the man who was separated and clothed in linen who spoke above the chaotic flood of tears and despair, and he lifted up his right hand and his left hand to shamayim and he swore an oath by the One who lives forever, eternally, that appointed time, appointed times, and half when the shattering and destruction of the power and control of the qodosh people would be completed and come to an end; all these things will be accomplished.

It is after this that Yahuah tells Daniel to seal up the book. However, this looks like what happens after Yahuah's two witnesses who will be on the earth for 3 ½ years at the start of the tribulation, when they have control of all the wonders of the earth, and then are killed by the beast. It's the last half of the tribulation 3 ½ years that everything changes. One can also think that perhaps at the end of the first half of the tribulation, what is accomplished is that there is no more fence sitting, one has made their choice as to what side of the fence they are on. That makes sense, because if after hearing from the 2 witnesses and you still ascribe to evil, then that door is closed. It will be the next 3 ½ years that the beast will be killing more of Yahuah's people, those that Scripture says will be coming out of the great distress.

Our Scriptures are victims to "time" compression, and reading Revelation is no different. In addition to being out of order it becomes almost impossible to figure out when, how or why something happens. If Revelation 10:7 is about finding out the secret of Yahuah, and this is before the 7th trumpet is sounded, then it would only make sense that once the 7th trumpet has sounded, then everything is over. But there are 12 more chapters to this book, then again, in reading Revelation carefully, you will come to realize that a lot of Yahuah has been interspersed among the chapters only to be confused that it is Yahusha. The reality though, is that once Yahuah is on the "scene", everything is coming to an end.

The task is to find when the 7th trumpet is sounded and what occurs when it does!

he lived for 700<sup>a</sup> years more before he died. Many other children <sup>b</sup> were born to him, and among them Seth; it would take me too long to speak of the rest, and I will only endeavour to narrate the story of the progeny of Seth. He, after being brought up and attaining to years of discretion, cultivated virtue, excelled in it himself, and left descendants who imitated his ways. These, being all of virtuous character, inhabited the same country without dissension and in prosperity, meeting with no untoward incident to the day of their death; they also discovered the science of the heavenly bodies and their orderly array.<sup>c</sup>

Their astronomical discoveries

Moreover, to prevent their discoveries from being lost to mankind and perishing before they became known—Adam having predicted a destruction of the universe, at one time by a violent fire and at another by a mighty deluge of water—they erected two pillars, one of brick and the other of stone, and inscribed these discoveries on both; so that, if the pillar of brick disappeared in the deluge, that of stone would remain to teach men what was graven thereon and to inform them that they had also erected one of brick.<sup>d</sup> It exists to this day in the land of Seiris.<sup>e</sup>

(iii. 1) For seven generations these people continued to believe in God as Lord of the universe and in everything to take virtue for their guide; then,

and later degeneration.

<sup>d</sup> Another version of this story appears in Jubilees viii. 3 (discovery of a writing carved on the rock recording the teaching of the watchers or angels concerning the heavenly bodies).

<sup>e</sup> Unidentified: Seirah, mentioned in connexion with "sculptured stones" in the story of Ehud (Jud. iii. 26), has been suggested. The tradition, as Reinach writes, doubtless arose from some ancient monument with an inscription in unknown (? Hittite) characters.

This was done by a theologian in the 1800's who translated Josephus. This was 9 volumes, and this is out of the 5th volume.

It talks about Adam as being a prophet and what he and Seth did.

Interestingly, the author refers to Jude 3:26 – oddly enough Scripture only shows this book having 1 chapter.

Translation by H. St. J. Thackeray, M.A. 1926

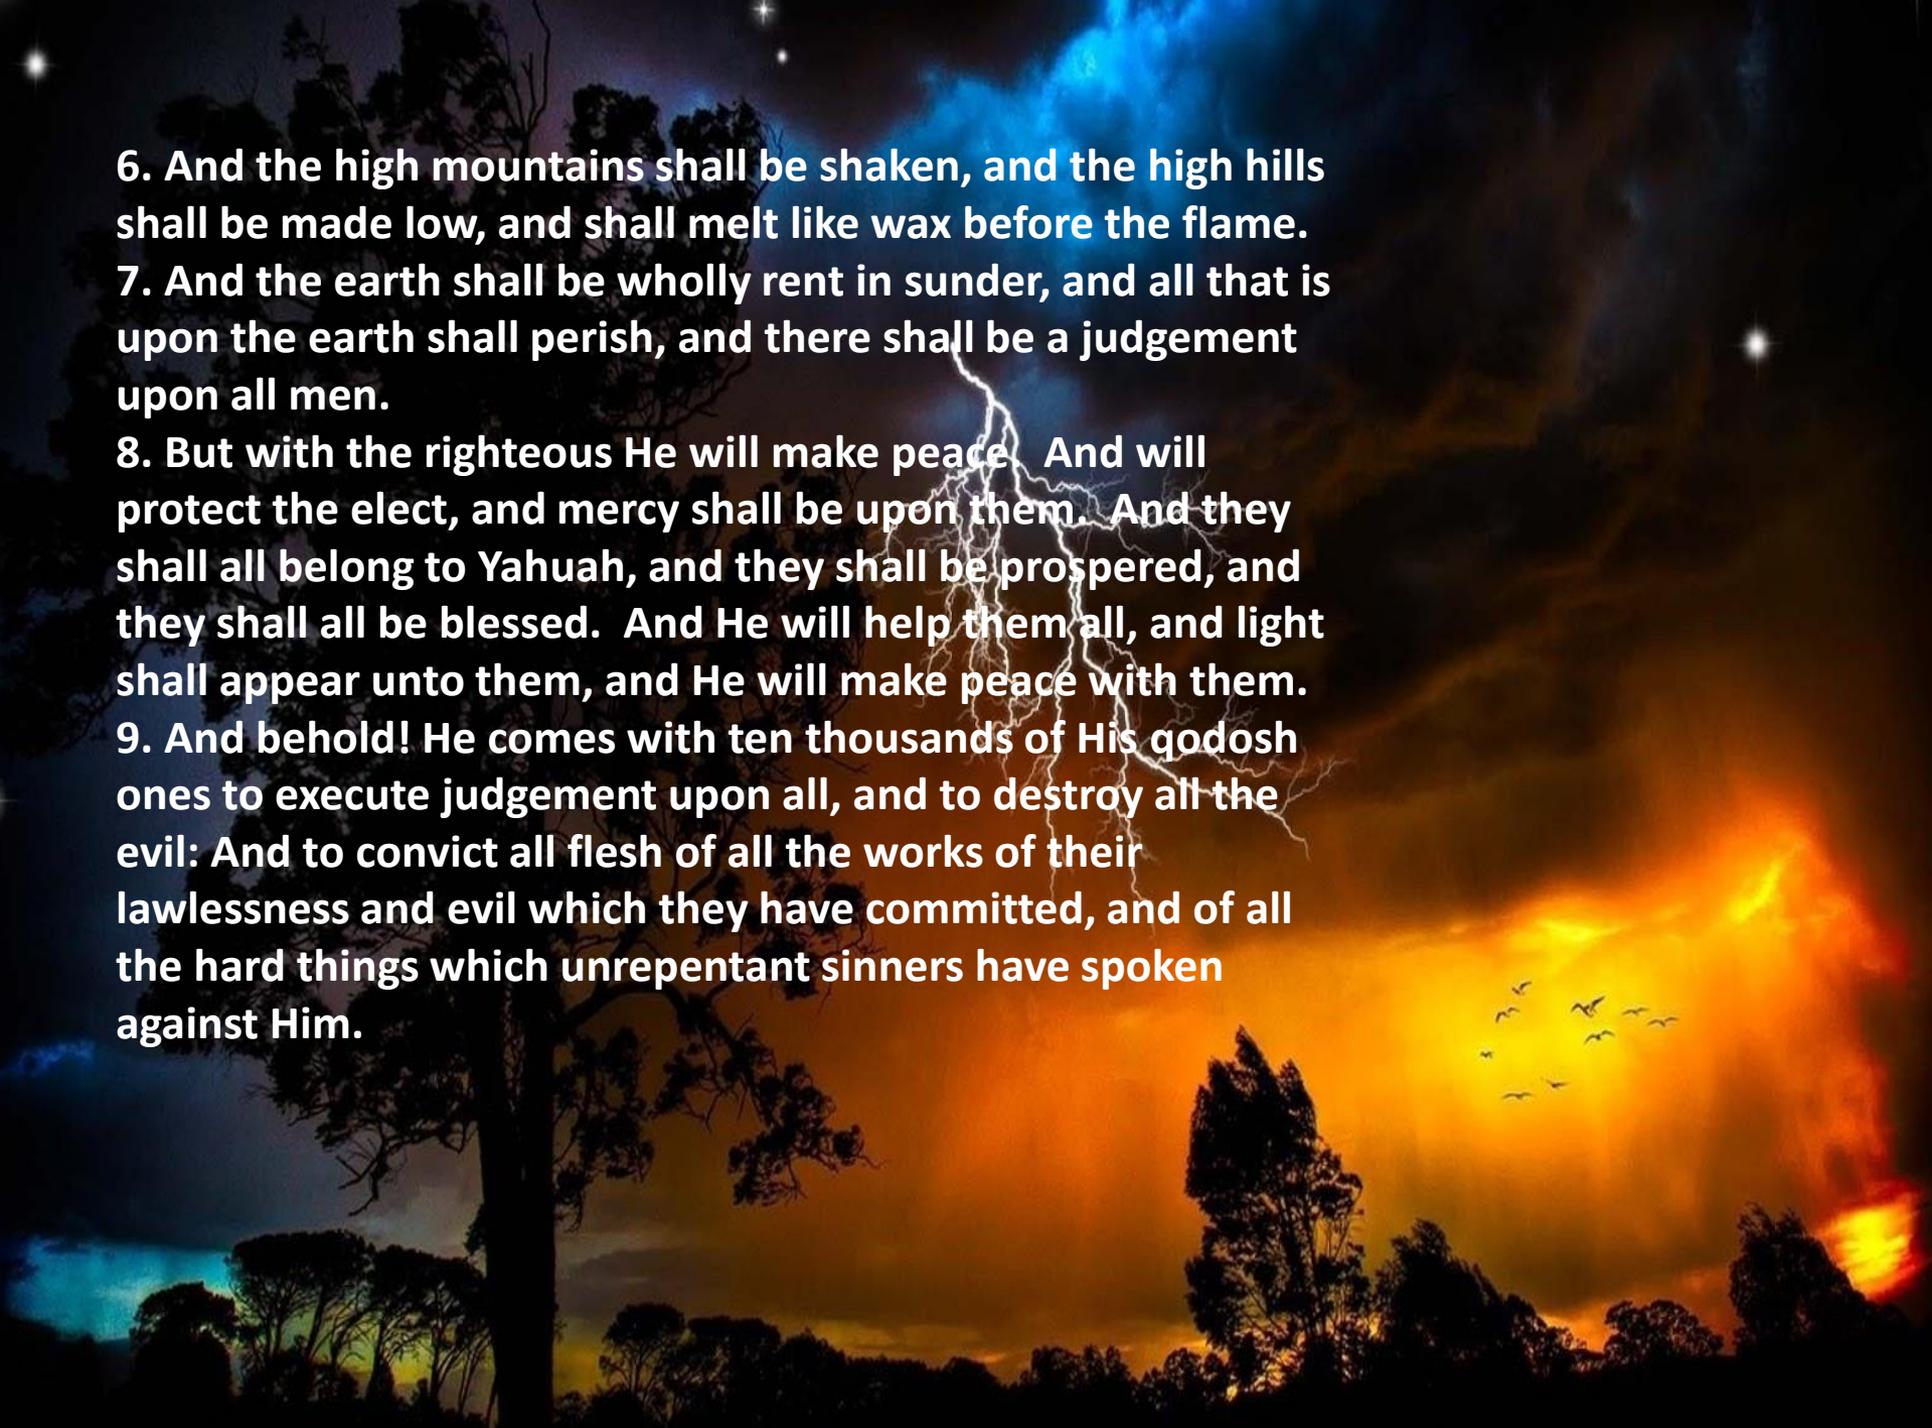

1. The words of the blessing of Enoch, wherewith he blessed the elect and righteous, who will be living in the day of tribulation, when all the wicked and evil are to be removed.

2. And he took up his parable and said--Enoch a righteous man, whose eyes were opened by Yahuah, saw the vision of the Qodosh One in the heavens, which the messengers showed me, and from them I heard everything, and from them I understood as I saw, but not for this generation, but for a remote one which is for to come.

3. Concerning the elect I said, and took up my parable concerning them: The Qodosh Great One will come forth from His dwelling,

4. And the Eternal will tread upon the earth, even on Mount Sinai, and appear from His camp, and appear in the strength of His might from the heaven of heavens.

5. And all shall be smitten with fear and the Watchers shall quake, and great fear and trembling shall seize them unto the ends of the earth.

6. And the high mountains shall be shaken, and the high hills shall be made low, and shall melt like wax before the flame.

7. And the earth shall be wholly rent in sunder, and all that is upon the earth shall perish, and there shall be a judgement upon all men.

8. But with the righteous He will make peace. And will protect the elect, and mercy shall be upon them. And they shall all belong to Yahuah, and they shall be prospered, and they shall all be blessed. And He will help them all, and light shall appear unto them, and He will make peace with them.

9. And behold! He comes with ten thousands of His godosh ones to execute judgement upon all, and to destroy all the evil: And to convict all flesh of all the works of their lawlessness and evil which they have committed, and of all the hard things which unrepentant sinners have spoken against Him.
